Project summary

This project focused on designing and managing a small operations-style accounts receivable and accounts payable system to support consistent cash flow, timely collections, and controlled vendor payments.

Problem

The business lacked structured tracking for outstanding invoices and upcoming payables, leading to delayed collections, unclear cash position, and reactive payment decisions.

Approach

- Designed a receivables tracker to monitor invoice status and aging, and a payables schedule to manage payment timing and cash commitments.
- Implemented a payables schedule to manage vendor obligations and due dates
- Established simple controls for invoice follow-up and payment approvals
- Structured data to support weekly cash position reviews

Deliverables

- Accounts receivable tracker with invoice aging
- Accounts payable schedule with due dates
- Cash flow overview aligned to AP/AR activity
- Documented workflow for ongoing AP/AR operations

Accounts payable schedule showing vendor bills, payment timing, and scheduled payments to support cash-flow planning.

Controls & Review Cadence

Weekly review of AR aging to prioritize collections follow-up and prevent overdue balances.

AP schedule reviewed alongside cash position to sequence vendor payments without liquidity strain.

Outcome

The AP/AR process was standardized, outstanding invoices became visible and actionable, and vendor payments were scheduled proactively based on available cash, improving operational control, predictability, and cash-flow decision-making.
